

CLLOUDS HAVE A BIG SECRET

Most of us who watch the sky, and look for rain and snow, don't realize that in that sky, there's something we don't know!

I'm not talking about outer space, and those aliens 'watching' us.
And I'm not talking about the UFO's, that scientists do discuss.

I'm not talking about the planets, or the stars way out beyond.
And this is not about Peter Pan, or Harry Potter's wand.

I'm talking about the clouds we see, the ones up in our sky.
Those clouds do have a secret; a secret they won't deny!

I'm about to tell you something, something to rock your world.
And when I'm through with telling you, your toes will be all curled!

Those big white clouds, up in the sky, the ones you see up there,
Those clouds do have a secret... a secret that I will share!

Now the first thing I should tell you, and I make this very clear, this secret that I'll share with you is nothing you should fear.

Before I reveal this secret, I will give you a couple of guesses.
My answers will not give you hints; they'll be just no's and yes's.

I can see that you are puzzled. Your mind is all upset!
Just take your time! Relax and think! There IS no need to fret!

What's that you say? You wonder what? Do clouds sometimes sweat?
Of course they do, on long hot days! Sometimes they're soaking wet!

They're in the sun from morn 'til night, and usually without a hat.
You'd have some sweat all over you, if in that sun you sat!

Some sunny days they get so hot, their skin does curl and crinkle.
And the sweat they can't contain does fall down as a sprinkle!

But that is not their secret! And my answer was way too long.
Please hurry with another question; we need to move along!

Say that again! You ask me what? Do clouds like pumpkin pie?
You think that is their secret? Well, your brain has gone awry!

No, that's not it. No, not at all. They don't like pumpkin pie.
Most clouds prefer a cake, you know. A cake ranks very high!!

What kind of cake do most clouds like? It depends upon their mood.
When all the clouds are feeling fine, they all like angel food.

But when they're feeling grumpy, yes, when those clouds feel rude, they'll grumble out some thunder, then eat some devil's food!

But now we're off the subject. We haven't stayed on course.
My answers went past "yes' and 'no', and I'm feeling some remorse.

But it seems that this secret has brought you to your knees.
Yes, it seems that you don't know... but ask more questions, please.

You do not know? You cannot think? Do you give up, I wonder?
Or will you ask another question, and make another blunder?

Okay, then I will tell you! This secret with you I'll share!
This secret that the clouds have kept, this secret, I will bare!

The clouds have kept this quiet! It's a secret that no one knows.
Are you ready for this gem? Okay, then I'll disclose!

Now that you are listening, I will make your day complete.
The secret is, (get ready now), all clouds have LITTLE FEET!

Yes indeed! Clouds have feet! Those clouds up in our skies!
I was shocked! And so were you! It is a HUGE SURPRISE!

Clouds rarely ever show those feet, and I think I know the reason.
It must be that, up in the sky, their feet are always freezin'.

High altitude brings on that cold, and makes their feet go numb.
So clouds protect those dainty feet. Those clouds are not so dumb!!

Clouds don't want their feet exposed; it would make their bodies shiver.
Their toes would turn a purple hue and their feet would really quiver.

So they keep their feet all tucked inside, to keep them dry and warm.
Anyway, if their feet were out, it would change their shape and form.

So that's the story. That's the scoop. That's something no one knows!
And, by the way, if you're counting, each foot has seven toes!

So now you know, when you look up, up toward those cloudy skies, that right inside those big white clouds, is a foot and toe surprise.

There are seven toes on each cloud foot that no one ever sees.
It's a secret that the clouds have kept. So keep it quiet, PLEASE!

I have one more secret to tell you. Believe this if you choose.
Clouds may not like to wear a hat, but they do like wearing SHOES!

The clouds have kept this quiet (I may be the only one who knows).
Did you know that all those clouds... have little feet... with toes?

All of us have looked at clouds, and believe we've seen their faces.
Now it's time to look once more ...this time look near their bases.

The End